Handwritten text in a central rectangular frame, likely a list or index, written in a different script or dialect than the surrounding text. The text is organized into columns and rows, with some lines appearing to be headings or sub-sections. The script is a form of Indic script, possibly Grantha or a related dialect, characterized by its compact and stylized letterforms. The text within the frame is more legible than the surrounding marginalia, which is written in a cursive, flowing style. The central text appears to be a structured list, possibly of names, titles, or subjects, arranged in a systematic manner. The surrounding text, both above and below the central frame, continues the same script and style, suggesting a continuous document or a collection of related texts. The overall layout is typical of traditional manuscript formats, where the main content is enclosed in a frame and supplementary information is provided in the margins.

Handwritten text in a script, likely Indic, running diagonally across the top margin.

Main body of handwritten text in a script, likely Indic, arranged in horizontal lines within a rectangular frame.

Extensive handwritten text in a script, likely Indic, running diagonally down the right side of the page.

Handwritten text in a script, likely Indic, running diagonally across the bottom margin.

Handwritten text in a central rectangular frame, likely a list or index, written in a different script or dialect than the surrounding text. The text is organized into columns and rows, with some lines appearing to be headings or sub-sections. The script is a form of Indic script, possibly Grantha or a related dialect, characterized by its compact and stylized letterforms. The text within the frame is more legible than the surrounding marginalia, which is written in a cursive, flowing style. The central text appears to be a structured list, possibly of names, titles, or subjects, arranged in a systematic manner. The surrounding text, which fills the majority of the page, is written in a dense, cursive script, likely a form of Indic script, and appears to be a commentary or a continuation of the text within the frame. The overall layout suggests a manuscript where a central list or index is accompanied by extensive marginalia or commentary.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, forming the main body of the document. The text is organized into a single column within a rectangular border.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, located on the right side of the page, possibly serving as a commentary or a separate entry.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, located at the bottom of the page, continuing the narrative or providing a conclusion.

Main body of handwritten text in a cursive script, organized into a single column within a rectangular frame. The text is dense and fills most of the central area of the page.

Extensive handwritten text in a cursive script, written diagonally across the right side of the page. This text appears to be a commentary or a separate entry related to the main text.

Handwritten text in a script, likely Indic, forming the main body of the page. The text is arranged in approximately 20 horizontal lines.

Handwritten text in a script, likely Indic, located on the right side of the page, possibly serving as a commentary or marginalia.
